RENAISSANCE EXECUTIVE FORUMS BEGINS OPERATIONS
- Innovative Approach for Chief Executives Now In Place -

ROCHESTER, NY - Bruce Peters, president / owner of the locally owned and operated Renaissance EXECUTIVE FORUMS franchise of Rochester, Buffalo and Syracuse, has announced that the first meeting of Chief Executives has taken place and that this innovative organization is now well underway. Mr. Peters now operates an exclusive service that brings together top executives from small to medium-sized businesses and major corporations throughout the Upstate New York region into an Advisory Board. Members from the non-competing companies will meet on a regularly scheduled basis to share ideas and concepts that help meet the challenges of successfully running a business.

Mr. Peters purchased the three franchising units in August 2008 that are offered through his Pittsford-based consulting firm, CABHQ, LLC, that provides strategic business solutions and facilitation services such as client advisory boards, peer advisory boards, and CEO leadership training in a peer-to-peer learning environment.

“This ‘proven process’ is designed to leverage the experience and expertise of the individual members to positively impact the speed and quality of effective decision-making,” said Mr. Peters. “The three distinct components of this process are; 1) the Monthly Group Meeting, 2) a Quarterly Coaching Session, and 3) an Annual Strategies for Success Retreat™ that focuses on personal and professional goal setting.”

This service that Mr. Peters has made available through his affiliation with Renaissance EXECUTIVE FORUMS has received recognition in the recent past on both a national and international level as one of the most effective activities a Chief Executive can engage in to move his or her organization forward. The franchise provides CABHQ, LLC with significant contacts and relationship building opportunities in 40 additional markets throughout the country.
